⭐ INTRODUCTION

BOXBIT
BLOCKCHAIN

What is blockchain?

Blockchain is a structure that consists of blocks. Each block contains a nonce, timestamp, the hash of the previous block and transaction (new data in non-financial applications). The blockchain works as follows. Transaction requests constantly arrive, but it is up to the majority of users to accept those requests.

After a transaction is accepted, the hash of the previous block, timestamp and nonce is added in to the new block. Since every block contains the previous block's hash value, this system is secure because if one block's contents change, hash values would not add up.

BoxBit Blockchain is a decentralized blockchain application with advanced integrations to be the smartest and scalable system. We aim to be the fastest block system to in crypto across the world. BoxBit Token will be the core token that will be used in all BoxBit platform.

We believe that all the best innovations will create good technology in the development of the Blockchain world in the web 4.0 era , Therefore BoxBit creates all use cases with Smart technology to synergize with the projects we develop
